Tests Give Indication Splendid Final Results Montreal-Alta.

Although awaiting the installation of heavy testing equipment for the new strike of light oil at the Montreal-Alta well west of town, the work which is proceeding very carefully gives every indication that the well which is well down in the line will fully come up to the expectations of those responsible for this first deep-well drilling in this field.

According to reports, the partial tests which have been under way for the past few days have proven that an exceedingly strong gas pressure has been struck in addition to the light crude which has been reached, and every care and precaution is being taken by Mr. M. Williams who is in charge that no unforeseen accident will happen to the project if humanly possible to avoid it.

Heavy equipment for a full and final test of the production of the well is being unloaded and will be installed this week, when the workmen will proceed at once to find out just what quantities of "liquid gold" this well has made available each 24 hours and the quality of the product.

We are informed that at least three other companies are making heavy preparations to come into the field for the purpose of sinking deep wells just as soon as the capacity of this well is known.

Between 30 and 40 more applications for oil leases have been filed in this area during the past week owing to this strike, according to the reports from the department and possibly some of these will see derricks erected and work started during the coming months.

Prov. Gov'ts. Crop Report No. 1-1936

(Issued by Department of Agriculture)

Spring work on the land over the Province became more or less general about a week ago, but in central areas and the Edmonton zone seeding is again delayed by recent heavy rains. Light showers only have been reported in the south. In the Peace River district considerable rain has fallen north of the river but the weather has been fair with only occasional showers in the Grande Prairie area. The season is later than normal by about one week in the south of the Province and approximately two weeks in the centre and north, excepting in the Peace River area which is considerably ahead of last year, especially south of the river.

In the district north from the Red Deer River to Coronation, wheat seeding is only about 10 per cent completed. High winds and not drifting have retarded operations to some extent in the Berry Creek area. From Drumheller to Stettler seeding is now general with soil and moisture conditions excellent.

Though spring work is now general east of the Calgary-Red Deer line, little has been done to the west where recent rains are causing further delay. Very favourable conditions exist in the Red Deer-Lacombe area with 15 per cent wheat seeded North to Edmonton and in the Camrose district, operations are less advanced and have been further delayed by heavy rains.

In the Sedgewick area and north to Vermilion wheat seeding is well under way, being delayed very little by recent weather conditions.

Through the territory west, north and east of Edmonton, spring work had only commenced a week ago, and little progress had been made before the heavy rains of this week which will delay operations for a week or more.

Soil conditions throughout the Province are good excepting in some parts of the north, where there is an excess of moisture because of heavy winter snows and spring rains which occurred before the land could dry out. There is an abundance of surface moisture in all districts, with reserve moisture apparently plentiful except in some parts of the south-eastern area.

Soil drifting in the south and east has been less extensive than usual, only one or two having reported any serious trouble in this respect.

In the south and central areas there appears to be a tendency toward a slight increase in wheat acreage, but any increase there may be counteracted by reduction in the north, especially if the seeding in the north is unduly delayed. Supplies of seed are adequate except in a few very limited districts in the north where frost injury last season was very severe.

FEDERAL GOV'T STARTS CHANGES B.N.A. ACT

OTTAWA—Over the protests of the opposition parties the commons passed a resolution Friday night as the first step in amending the British North America Act, the written constitution of the country. It now goes to the senate and eventually to the parliament of the United Kingdom for final action.

Two changes would be made in the constitution. The first would widen the taxation field of the provinces by permitting them to impose sales taxes on all retail transactions with the exception of liquors and tobaccos. The second would empower the dominion to guarantee provincial borrowings and permit the provinces to hypothecate their federal subsidies as securities.

Edmund Lowe to Play in Dual Role

"The Great Impersonation", a production adapted from one of the most popular of Oppenheimer's many novels of romance and intrigue, is showing at the Elite Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Colorful and absorbing from start to finish, it deals exclusively in entertainment elements. It is the story, cleverly premised and developed, of a great impersonation, with settings in German East Africa and London during the period immediately prior to and in the early days of the world war.

The story, with Edmund Lowe assuming a dual role, is that of a British explorer who, bearing a striking resemblance to a renegade German, is presumably murdered. Returning to his own English home, supposedly in true identity but actually the agent of a German mission, he encounters a series of hair-raising adventures.

In the climax, with danger threatening his domestic life as well as the life of his country, he emerges in true identity as an English hero.

Though there is an atmosphere of war menace, particularly in the latter part, the show is not a war picture; rather it is an unique mystery drama, check full of all the tricky elements.

Showing on May 21-22-23.

An enjoyable time was spent by quite a crowd at the "Tennis Club" dance which was held on Friday last.

Dr. Maynes, of Wainwright, and Dr. Moore, of Edmonton, have arranged to hold a "tonic clinic" in Edmonton on Saturday next.

High School Students Elect Union Officers

(Crowded out last week)

The high school students brought their "Students' Union" elections to a successful close on Monday morning last week when the results of the preferential balloting were announced. This was the first time elections were held according to the new constitution just recently adopted and during the last week flying banners were seen everywhere soliciting votes. The students by various devices had been made really election conscious.

In the presidential elections Roy Fraser and Brock Armstrong were candidates. Brock was elected President of the Students' Union by a vote of 46-25.

The real struggle came, however, in the elections on Friday for the assembly and Chairman of the Council. There were 22 candidates for the 15 seats in the assembly. The assembly member who received the largest number of votes would become Chairman of the Council. Thus with only 68 voters the contest for chairman was particularly stiff.

When the first choices in the balloting were counted the results were: I. Milner, 33; R. Fraser, 12; M. Lane, 5; V. McNally, 3; E. Cork, 3; E. Taylor, 2; C. Brunker, 1; W. Brunker, 1; F. Drowicki, 1; G. Lashmore, 1; R. Sudd, 1; H. Stuart, 1; and P. Washburn, 1, with seven others receiving no votes.

This meant that Irvine Milner was elected Chairman of the Council. After successive countings those finally elected for the assembly were: S. Bayrack, 59; M. Lane, 59; A. Bateman, 56; P. Washburn, 55; V. McNally, 54; E. Taylor, 54; E. Cork, 54; R. Fraser, 53; G. Ridd, 51; I. Dundas, 51; W. Brunker, 41; E. Lashmore, 47; M. Fraser, 45; C. Lily, 43.

This assembly and chairman will officially come into office at the beginning of the next term. Irvine Milner will appoint a cabinet which may number 10 members.

(Crowded out last week)

The Sodality of the Children of Mary held a banquet in the Masonic Hall, Wainwright, Monday evening in honor of the Mothers and married ladies of Blessed Sacrament Parish.

The event was one of the most delightful occasions, and all of the forty guests were loud in their praises of the energetic executive and members. The tables were daintily set and presented a festive appearance with the lighted candles and fresh cut flowers. All the guests (themselves past-master in the culinary arts) were delightfully surprised at the quantity and quality of the different food-stuffs served.

Miss L. Page was in the chair, and gave a very warm welcome to the guests speaking to them in both French and English. A French reading was then given by Miss Ferna Rajotte and one in English by Miss Marie Kraft. Members of the Sodality then sang such familiar songs as Mother Macree, Voice, etc.

Thirty-Six Million in One Hand

TODAY & TOMORROW

By
Frank Parker
Stockbridge

PALACES . . . at Washington. The only word to describe the magnificent public buildings in which the Government of the United States is administered at Washington is "palatial." Nowhere else in the world are government offices housed in such spacious and magnificent structures. Only in the ruins of ancient Rome is there anything approaching their magnificence.

Washington is still building palaces. Work was just beginning when I was there a couple of weeks ago, on the new Interior Department Building, which will be the very last word in comfort, convenience and spaciousness. By contrast the government offices of the British Empire seem like crowded, dingy hovels.

This is a great country and Washington is symbolic of its national greatness.

ADMINISTRATION . . . big job. More important than the buildings in Washington is what goes on inside of them. It is a gigantic job to run the whole United States from an isolated spot off the Southeast corner. I have been watching the gradual concentration of authority in Washington for more than fifty years. The older I get the more I am impressed with the feeling that it is practically impossible to administer the affairs of the United States from any single center.

Washington will doubtless always be the national capital. If we were starting today from scratch, however, we would set up the nation's capital somewhere between Chicago and Denver, nearer the center of things. Geographically, Washington is anachronism. I think some day we will have to set up district or provincial capitals in six or seven different parts of the country.

PROVINCES . . . maybe here. I have no idea whether the American people, if they could all vote on the question, would prefer a centralized national government to our present Federal form in which the states still retain a large measure of independence. The tendency for fifty years has been toward nationalism. It would take a drastic revision of the Constitution to make a straight-out national government effective.

I think it more probable, if a change is ever made which will destroy the present independence of the states, that it will be by combinations of states into regional groups or provinces.

Considering our diversity of climatic and economic conditions, it is becoming more and more difficult to lay down rules and laws of national application which do not bear unfairly upon one region or another. Yet the interests of numerous groups of states are so identical that it is quite possible their interests would be better served if they could be united into self-governing units.

RELIEF . . . weakness. A good example of the difficulty of running a country as big as this from any central point is found in the administration of relief by the Federal Government. There is no possible way by which Washington can be sure that its relief distributions reach only those who are actually in need.

I talked with Harry Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, not long ago. Mr. Hopkins is a hard-working, earnest public servant. He was surprised and resentful at the suggestion that the local administration of Federal relief was inefficient and wasteful in many cases.

The trouble, as in many other Federal activities, is that no general rule can be devised, which will apply with equal fairness to all kinds of people and every locality. That is true whether the attempt is to establish commodity prices, wages, hours of labor, housing conditions or even taxation on a national scale. And it's just as true no matter what political party or group controls the Government.

CONTACTS . . . impossible. One of the greatest handicaps, under which any government centered in Washington labors, is that its responsible leaders are nearly always out of contact with the people whose affairs they try to administer. That is as true of Senators and members of Congress as it is of administrative officials. They are too far away from the centers of human activity. They cannot move back to their states and districts over the weekends and mix with people who can tell them what the public is thinking.

Almost the only contacts Washington has with the rest of the nation is with people who go there with an axe to grind. Most of the mistakes that every administration and every Congress make are, I believe, traceable to the detachment of those who occupy the high seats of Government from the practical, everyday affairs of the people.

RAIL GRADING OF HOGS— A NEW MARKETING SYSTEM PROVES POPULAR

During the past four weeks one Alberta packing house has bought over two thousand hogs on a rail graded, dressed weight basis. This method of buying hogs has just been inaugurated in Alberta during the past four weeks, and from all reports, the farmers who have sold their hogs in this manner, are very well satisfied and are coming back again, to sell on the same basis.

The buying and selling of hogs on a dressed weight basis has been in operation in Eastern Canada for over a year. The packers buying on this basis report their shippers are very well pleased.

It now well over ten years since the Federal Government inaugurated the present system of live grading, and this could be called the first step in the right direction towards raising the right type of hogs. There has been a remarkable improvement, during the last ten years, in the percentage of bacon hogs produced. This improvement is a direct result of the present system of live grading.

The Federal Government are now sponsoring what could be called the second step, namely, the marketing of hogs on a rail graded, dressed weight basis.

A few words of explanation: the marketing of hogs on a dressed weight, rail graded basis, is exactly what the words imply. A farmer dresses his hogs; these hogs are then tattooed with a number, so that they may be identified when they are killed. The live hogs are then weighed up, so that a part down payment may be made. This down payment usually runs around 75 per cent of the butcher price. The hogs are then killed, and weighed individually, to the exact pound. A Government grading inspector then grades the hogs on the killing floor, according to standards as set up by the Federal Government, and the final payment is made on the basis of that grade. These grades correspond very closely, to the present live grades, and the premiums and discounts paid are practically on the same basis. It will be easily seen that the Grading Inspector is able to do more efficient grading with the split carcasses before him, as he does not have to estimate weight, depth of backfat, or thickness.

Whip marks, scratches and bruises are not a factor in determining the grade, except those hogs that are seriously damaged. Carcasses that are condemned will be paid for on the same basis of the grade in which they would otherwise be. The Government will issue releases on all Rail Graded hogs.

A farmer might well ask himself: Why should I change over to Rail Grading? How do I benefit by it? How does the hog industry benefit by it? These questions are easily answered. When the present system of live grading was instituted, the policy of paying premiums to the farmers who raised good hogs, was started. In a very short time there was a great improvement in the number of bacon hogs marketed.

Today the following situation confronts us: A number of farmers have progressed to such an extent that it would nearly be impossible for them to raise a larger percentage of Bacon hogs. Another number are just raising an average per cent of Bacon, while the balance of the farmers are just raising hogs. Under the present system of live grading the dressed "yields" of the hogs have a great deal to do with the final dressed cost. The word "yields" refers to the amount of dressed meat in relation to the live weight. For example: two farmers bring in two hogs, each weighing 200 pounds. When these hogs are killed, one hog weighs 150 pounds dressed, while the other weighs 160 pounds dressed. Now it is easy to see that the 160-pound hog was a better yielding hog.

than the 150-pound hog, and that the producer of the 160-pound hog would receive more money, whereas, if these hogs had been sold alive, each producer would have received the same.

Now the purpose of marketing hogs on a rail graded basis is to give the producer of high quality and high yielding hogs the proper value of his hogs as related to the whole volume of hogs produced. In other words the producer gets paid for exactly what he delivers.

This marketing of hogs on a Rail Graded basis not only gives the producer a premium on his bacon hogs but also pays him on a basis of yield. Hogs that are fed right and looked after properly, yield high, which results in the producer getting more money for his hogs.

Is this not sufficient incentive for the producer to raise good hogs, thereby benefitting the hog industry at large, and helping himself, at the same time?

By the Ottawa Trade Agreement the Old Country gave Canada a quota of 280 million pounds of bacon each year. Since this Agreement was put into effect, the closest we have ever come to reaching the quota was roughly, 40 per cent, or 112 million pounds short. We might explain, now:

The 40 per cent we did ship was not of the best quality, due to the fact that the producers had not raised the right type of hog. A lot of this bacon was just medium quality, and not the type that would command a premium, or establish Canada as a leading exporter, insofar as quality is concerned, on the Old Country Market.

Figured in dollars and cents, this 112 million pounds shortage represents, at an average price of 7c per pound, and an average yield of 65 per cent, around $16,000,000.00 worth of live hogs, each year. In number of live hogs this would represent approximately one million head, each year.

What does all this mean. It just means this: we fell down to the extent of 16 million dollars a year, in using our natural resources. We did not raise enough hogs, and we did not raise hogs of good enough quality.

If all this shortage could have been consolidated and made up in our own Province of Alberta, (which would not have been impossible) Alberta would have been the most prosperous province in Canada today. Just imagine 16 million dollars a year more income into Alberta, and the results thereof!

The marketing of hogs on a Rail Graded basis should be the means (just as it has been in other countries) of increasing the VOLUME and QUALITY of Canadian hogs to such an extent that Canada will be SECOND TO NONE.

Fredericton, New Brunswick, has been chosen as the meeting place of the 1936 annual convention of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, to be held on July 9, 10, and 11.

Of more than 8,000 Nova Scotia lambs marketed co-operatively in 1935, 91.4 per cent weighed between 70 and 100 pounds, of good type and well-finished.

When the Government Enumerator Calls.....

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT INVITES THE WILLING CO-OPERATION OF EVERY CITIZEN

COMMENCING June 1st, the usual five-year census of the three Prairie Provinces will be undertaken. The object of this census is to gather statistics by means of which your Government can function more intelligently, more effectively and more economically in the interests of all citizens of the country.

That is why we ask your utmost co-operation in the census of the Prairie Provinces which commences on June 1st this year. When the Government Enumerator calls at your door, receive him courteously. Give him all the information for which he asks. Remember, he is the agent of good administration and is in your service. Help him to complete his work with all possible despatch. On the accuracy and completeness of your replies to his questions depends the best interest of yourself and your Government.

ALL INFORMATION IS HELD STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL You can place absolute trust in the official enumerator who calls on you. All information you provide will be held in the strictest confidence. It is compulsory by law to answer the questions put by the enumerator. But you are living up to the spirit of good citizenship as well as to the letter of the law by giving information readily, completely and sincerely.

DOMINION BUREAU OF STATISTICS

Experimental Farms News

QUINQUENNIAL CENSUS OF AGRICULTURE

The Census of Agriculture, which is to be taken on the first day of June, is primarily for the benefit of the farming industry and it taken accurately will be of great value in the study of agricultural conditions. It is extremely important therefore, says the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, that a complete and accurate record of agricultural operations be taken.

The report when published will be a mine of information for all those interested in the problems of the farmers of the Prairie Provinces. It is of the utmost importance that the figures contributed by each farmer shall be complete and accurate so that the best possible inventory of the leading industry will be effected.

The Census of Agriculture aims at securing accurate statistics relative to farm lands, buildings, live stock, mortgaged debt, etc., as at June 1; statistics for 1935 concerning crops, live stock products, farm expenses and products sold; statistics of food, dental, agricultural production, live stock, animal products, etc., on plots of less than one acre, and statistics of vacant and abandoned farms.

There is an absolute guarantee that no information given will be used otherwise than in preparing the Census figures. The individual answering the questions is completely protected. All officials connected with the Census are bound by an oath of secrecy and there is therefore no reason whatever why every farmer should not cooperate by supplying the Census enumerators with complete and accurate information. Thoroughly effective remedial policies can only be created when facts are made available.

A farm, for Census purposes, is all the land farmed by one person with or without help. It must be of one acre or more and must have produced agricultural products to the value of $50 in 1935. A man who owns a certain amount of land might rent part of it. This will be entered on the Census records as two farms, the land farmed by each man being considered as a unit. On the other hand, a man renting various tracts of land from different owners will be regarded as operating one farm only, the various pieces of land constituting one unit. If, however, the tracts are in different enumeration areas or if a manager is hired to supervise a certain portion of the land, that portion will go down as a separate farm.

The information requested on the general farm schedule covers the operator, population of the farm on June 1, persons employed to do the farm work in 1935, condition of farm and equipment and the amount of mortgaged debt and liens, with the rate of interest paid, farm expenses in 1935, farm facilities in 1935, forest products produced in 1935, co-operative marketing, crop percentages in 1935, acreages and production in 1935, with information relating to crop failure, live stock on June 1, animal products raised in 1935 and whether they were consumed on the farm or sold, pure bred animals on farms, and the value of products sold off the farms in 1935.

GALL-BLADDER

Close to and beneath the liver lies the gall bladder, a thin-walled sac which holds the bile secreted by the liver. The act of eating causes the gall-bladder to contract; this discharges the bile into the intestines where it plays an important part in digestion.

Disease of the gall-bladder is the most common cause of what is thought to be stomach disorders in adult life. The gall-bladder is a part of the digestive tract, and disease anywhere along this tract may be responsible for infections of the gall-bladder.

Infection of the gall-bladder is often the last evidence of the pneumonia, influenza or typhoid fever from which the patient has recovered. The gall-bladder appears to be particularly vulnerable to the bacteria responsible for a wide variety of infectious diseases.

A woman who is "fat, fat and forty" is the most likely person to suffer from gall-bladder disease. The disease is found most frequently among pregnant women, nursing mothers and women who are over weight, although it is not restricted to these categories of individuals.

The first symptoms noted may be a sense of fullness and distention of the abdomen, with a desire to belch gas. Headache and constipation are fairly common, and the patient is not infrequently irritable and nervous.

Stones form in the gall-bladder and, once formed, they tend to increase in size. If they become too large to escape from the gall-bladder through the duct that leads into the intestine, trouble may follow.

Many persons with gall-stones are unaware of their presence as they cause no discomfort. Symptoms result from irritation and inflammation caused by the stones. When there is severe pain with nausea and vomiting, this usually means that one of the larger stones is caught in the outlet duct and is unable to escape.

The most common cause of jaundice is gall-bladder disease; it is due to a blocking of the outlet duct following which the bile is absorbed. Treatment, in some cases, may be brought through diet and hygiene; in other cases, however, surgical care is required. The decision must be made, in each case, by the doctor who knows the condition of the patient concerned.

Most of us will go through life unaware of the presence of our gall-bladder. We have means at our disposal to keep the gall-bladder functioning in a healthy manner; these are: a balanced diet that does not contain an excess of fats, regular meals, guarding against overweight, regular moderate exercise, and good convalescent care following any infectious condition.

POSSESSION IS NINE POINTS OF THE LAW

Not one out of a thousand of us who use this smooth line, it is safe to say, realize that its inspiration is from the works of a man who lived and wrote several centuries before the birth of Christ.

Its author is Pliny or Biddal, and he wrote in Sanskrit. From this ancient language it was eventually translated, through several intermediary languages, into English in 1870. Originally it appeared in the form of "Possession is nine points of the law," it is from the fable called "The Cat and the Two Birds."

Writing almost a century ago a half later, Colley Cibber in his "Walter's Wit" modified the expression to "Possession is eleven points of the law." And in the passage of time and chiefly as a result of our penchant for appraising quantitatively in terms of round decimals, the expression became further changed to its present "Possession is nine points of the law."

STOIC

About twenty-four hundred years ago, there lived in Athens a teacher named Zeno. Zeno's ideas were original and he attracted so many students that he soon became known as a philosopher.

Amidst an environment of self-indulgence, Zeno preached that the wise man was he whose reason alone controlled his actions; and that the mastery of the mind over desire could only be accomplished by freeing one's self from the tyrannies of passion, joy and grief; and resigning one's self to accepting the dictates of natural law.

Zeno expounded his doctrines in the market-place of Athens on a porch under a roofed colonnade—a type of structure called in Greek "Stoikos."

What is practically a lost art is preserved by manufacturers of buttons for the dress uniforms of officers in a number of British Army regiments. These buttons, which are made of nickel silver, are hand-worked with designs cut out with fine jeweler's saws. The flaglets and designs are said to be comparable to those worked on precious metals. Some of the saw blades are so fine that they are practically invisible.

FOUR-SCORE YEARS—OR MORE

One of my patrons is now 86 years old. He is not a freak; he is a normal man, and has been so for four-score years and more. He had no need of any medicines or surgery; he knows how to live, perhaps better than I do; but he regularly lets me take an inventory—his blood-pressure, condition of his heart and circulation in particular. He just wants to know if anything is wrong that he hasn't noticed.

Now, if this man can live so long and happily, why cannot you and I do as well?

The one outstanding reason is because we violate too many laws of right living.

He does not lie in bed too late mornings. He is up at five A.M. every day. We go to bed too late nights. He is in bed before 9:30 every night. We stuff our bodies with food at the wrong time of the day; his best meal is breakfast, his lightest meal, supper. We have high blood pressure, tubby bodies, indolent nerves, poisoned arteries, and all that goes with them. He doesn't. Yet, he is just the same sort of human being that we are.

He does everything in the shape of hard work that came along in his life—hasn't hurt him any. We accuse our work of being the cause of our troubles—when it is excess food and indolent habits. My old patron has lived in the open. We are inside all day and most nights. If our mode of living is absolutely unaccountable, then we should not complain, if we do before our Creator intended us to.

Back to first principles! is hourly but powerfully conducive to four score years of life, or more.

EVERYBODY
PAYS TAXES

How many folks know how much they contribute toward the cost of government? It is a safe bet that few, if any, can give the right answer. But it is certain that everybody does pay taxes, directly or indirectly.

If every commodity purchased,
and every bill received for anything, could bear on its face a note stating the amount of the total charge representing taxes paid on one penny or another in the process of production and distribution, it would not take long for the general run of people, who imagine that taxes are paid only by the rich, to realize that they are carrying a tax burden even heavier in proportion to their means.

Taxes have a direct bearing on wages. The income of every employee depends basically on the earning power of the business that employs him, and on the ability of the employer to pay adequate real wages.
"Real" wages are not "measurable" in dollars, but in the commodities which the current dollar will buy.

When the prices of food, clothing, rent and the other necessities of life go up by reason of increased taxes, the effect is a reduction in the real wages of workers. The wage-earner pays taxes not alone in the prices of the things he buys, but in the reduced power of his employer to pay him higher wages.

One of the big motor car companies reports that its taxes last year were 21 per cent of its payroll.
A large railroad system figures that this year's taxes will come to 22 per cent of its payroll. Of course, somebody has to pay for the cost of government, local, county, state and national, but whether it is necessary to pay such a high price for government is a live question which more and more people are asking.

The realization that taxes come out of everybody's pockets, in higher prices and lower wages, is spreading.
When every man comes to a full understanding that neither he nor anybody else escapes taxation, he is going to begin to find out just where the tax money goes, who spends it and for what.

IF EVERY CITIZEN WERE LIKE YOU

Here's a poem from the Glasgow
Herald that will apply any place:

"Would your town be a better or poorer one if every citizen was like you? That is a fair question to ask yourself. What are you doing in the way of suggesting something for the bettering of conditions in your town? So many citizens, in fact the great majority of citizens, are content to mind their own business and give no thought whatever of how conditions in their own town might be improved, socially, from a business standpoint, educationally and morally. How many suggestions do you offer in the year as to local improvements, and how many might help to start, in a small way, some new industry? In other words, is your town the best, the poorest, or just of no account because of your living there? Make the people you meet from outside feel that they are the most welcome guests who ever came to town. It does not cost anything to be courteous and pleasant to those who come from neighboring villages. It is the friendly spirit of co-operation and Christian love that keeps the world going. Why not make it a community spirit? Someone has said: 'There isn't much to be done in a little town, but it is very true, but not in the way it was intended. Sometimes what you need in the way of help may tickle the ears of the out-mind and stre-n the imaginations of those who seem to take delight in spreading false reports, but it is not helpful to the well being of your town.'

LET'S PLAY FAIR

The Editor:

Dear Sir:—Have just become acquainted with the fact that changes have been made lately in the staff at the local hospital and would like to know why this institution is run differently from others of like class.

When changes are to be made of the staff increased why does not the local Board advertise the fact in the newspaper and let the whole of the people interested know that a change exists for a local girl to obtain employment, or do they (the Board) play favorites?

There are no doubt dozens of good young girls who are anxious and willing to obtain work of the nature done at the hospital, and yet when new help is hired someone is slipped in without anyone being the wiser.

It must be remembered that it is a public business and run by public monies, to which we all have to add our bit, and the fairest thing to do is to give everyone a chance of making application to get on the payroll when vacancies occur or extra help is needed. Why not, ask

MANY HUNDREDS KILLED
STREETS & HIGHWAYS IN 1935

Writing on this subject in a leading Canadian magazine, Mr. R. E.
Knowles, Jr., pointed out that more than a thousand men, women and children—alive and well today—will be in their graves a year hence as a result of motor accidents on the streets and highways of Canada.

Some 2,500 others will be injured—many of them crippled for life—and cost to $2,500,000 worth of property will be destroyed within the year.
A further toll of these motor mistakes.

During the past eight years there has been an average of 1,138 persons killed annually in traffic accidents in Canada.

The deaths vary from year to year in almost exactly the same way as does the consumption of gasoline, which goes up or down as the general level of prosperity goes up or down.

With everything indicating that "good times" are fast returning, one doesn't need to be a prophet to say that the traffic toll for 1936 will be close to its eight-year average of 1,138 killed. It may be a little more or a little less, but the law of averages says that it will be close to this figure, and the law of averages never fails.

Perhaps you will be one of this year's victims!

You protest. You are always careful, you say, whether driving or walking; you would never take the risks that most of the victims of accidents were in the habit of taking until they took them, you play safe.

If you do you are entitled to take exception to the statement that you might be one of this year's victims.
But remember this: it's not enough to be careful. To play really safe in traffic requires something more than mere caution, carelessness or timidity. It requires an intelligent study of traffic conditions and a constant realization of the presence of different traffic risks. It requires a knowledge of when, how and why accidents occur, together with the desire and the ability to avoid or overcome these conditions.

On this subject of loss of life in motor accidents Collier's (American publication) in a recent issue says:

"DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE"

"It (alcoholic drinking) is, however, an inexcusable cause of many highway accidents and deaths. Drunken pedestrians also had a bad record (in 1935) . . . of all the pedestrians killed in motor accidents 9.4 per cent were classified as drunk. . . . Public opinion is slow to act but if evils are allowed to accumulate finally action will be taken. The danger now is that public anger will lead to drastic measures which will not improve the situation. Remember the outstanding facts. Last year 36,100 were killed and 895,200 are known to have been injured in motor accidents. Of those injured 12,530 had broken skulls.

Fractured spines were suffered by 1,790. Other broken bones were involved in 74,610 accidents. Concussion of the brain was inflicted upon 14,320. . . . The driver under the pressure of liquor is not fit to operate a powerful motor vehicle capable of high speed. Driving and drinking simply do not mix. If a man or woman wants to drink, the law in most 'sober' states 'no objection.
Thanks to our disastrous experiment with prohibition the consumption of alcoholic beverages has more legal and social approval now than at any previous time during the last fifty years. So long as drinking is temperate and virtuous, it is no public mischief. The present inclination is to say that the consumption of liquor is a purely private matter. But the operation of a motorcar on a highway is distinctly a public affair. . . . prudence suggests that drinking and driving be kept distinctly separate. If it seems desirable to drink on a particular occasion, don't drive. If driving is essential, don't drink. If the motorist is even slightly under the influence of liquor he is incompetent, regardless of what happens to him or what he does to others. . . . a group measures demands the finger pringing of drivers even slightly under the influence of liquor. The purpose of this is to create an accurate record of drivers' habits and behavior
. . . . Once the incompetent or careless drivers are removed from the road, it will be practicable to undertake other remedial measures."

catch any water that may otherwise run down the arm.

An excellent polishing cloth for time and other metals is made by soaking a good-sized piece of flannel in a mixture of water, two tablespoons of ammonia and one tablespoon of finely powdered whiting;
wring the flannel out of the solution, let it dry and use to keep metals bright.

To remove lime from the tea kettle, boil in the kettle a strong solution of vinegar, while still hot scrub out as much as possible, then boil again with clear water; rinse thoroughly before using.

Matches should be kept in a metal box entirely out of reach of the children. There seems to be nothing that fascinates them more than matches and there is nothing that causes so many bad accidents as the carelessly stored match.

A large bowl of fresh water to which has been added a few drops of ammonia, if placed in a room overnight, will remove all traces of fresh paint, and the stale smell of cigar and cigarette smoke, that is always there after a party.

There is no need to fasten a bell to a foot.

A CALENDAR ROMANCE

Our hero was the common sort, when all is said and done; He worked his head off daily and was out to get the MON.
The reason for his diligence was commonplace, 'tis true. He tried to swell his salary so it would suffice for TUE.
And maybe that's the reason why one day he lost his head, And falling on his knees, he cried, "Oh, maiden, wilt thou WED?"
He may have thought this sudden, but it seemed not so to her; She laid a quick acceptance and said forcibly, "Yeth, THUR."
But when they went to keeping house he feared that he would die; For, oh that modern maiden could neither bake nor FRI.
She could not run a bungalow, or even run a flat, So on many sad occasions in a restaurant he SAT.
But he forgave her everything—as man has always done, When she presented him one day with a bouncing baby SUN.

Good Comedy-drama

For May 25-6-7

"Party Wire" is a comedy drama which provides ample interest for the average audience. Basically, the theme is a romantic love interest with unusual topical comedy, but as it turns dramatic and near-tragic in the anti-climax, a vein of tense suspense is introduced.

The locale is a typical small town where the residents' chief diversion and means of picking up the latest news gossip is listening in on party-line telephones. The townfolk, particularly the mothers of marriageable daughters, are anxiously awaiting the home-coming of Matthew Farnsworth, Chief of much fun, he seems to be looking only for his old pal, Bill Oliver, and his daughter Marge, the only one in town who apparently hasn't paid much attention to his arrival.

Romance grows apace for Malt and Marge but fate steps in and almost causes a break-up between the two. An amusing remark made by Bill in a telephone conversation and overheard by listeners-in, is misinterpreted and the finger of scandal points at Marge.

But when Aunt Nettie at a public meeting, denounces the community for all it has said and done—and having been a listener-in herself, she has all the dope about everybody's private life—they promise to refrain from party line gossip, fearing her revelations.

This lively picture will be showing at the Elite on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next, May 25-26-27.
